

200 ARE KILLED AND WOUNDED; SERBIANS FIGHT DESPERATELY

CLASHES GROW MORE FREQUENT IN BOSNIA PROVINCE; MOBS IN MOSTAR ARE BEYOND CONTROL

Servian Quarters Invaded by Pro-Austrians, Chasing Former to Roofs of Houses Where for Hours a Desperate Battle Ensued—Servians Hold Their Own Until Reinforcements Arrive and Are Then Forced to Retire—Mostar is Reported to be on Fire.

BUDAPEST, June 30.—More than 200 have been killed and wounded at Mostar, the capital of Herzegovina province, in fighting between Servians and Mohammedan Croats. The battle was the result of the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand and his wife.

It is reported this afternoon that Mostar is burning. The Croats were the aggressors, according to dispatches from Budapest. Hiriap, a mob invading the Servian quarter and yelling threats of death to the inhabitants. The Servians resisted and a desperate battle followed. The Servians more than held their own until the Croats were reinforced. Outnumbered the Servians were driven into their homes. The Croats broke down the doors and chased the Servians to the roofs.

The fight raged for hours on the housetops. A fire started and spread rapidly and at last accounts was unextinguished.

In a dozen villages in Bosnia province fighting is reported between Mohammedan pro-Austrians and Servians, who, detesting Austrian rule, regarded the assassination of Ferdinand as a patriotic act.

METKOVITCH DALMATIA, June 30.—The bodies of Archduke Ferdinand and his wife arrived here today and were transferred to an Austrian warship in the harbor, thence escorted to sea by a squadron of fighting vessels. The warships will reach Trieste Thursday morning. From there the corpses will be taken by special train to Vienna, arriving at 10 p. m.

VIENNA, June 30.—Emperor William of Germany will attend Archduke Ferdinand's funeral in person, it was announced. The funeral is expected to be held Friday. Probably there will be no other royalties present except the Emperor of Austria himself. Considerable anxiety is felt for the latter's health. It is thought the presence of any number of visitors of his own rank, whom he would have to entertain is inadvisable. There will be representatives, however, from every capital of Europe.

On Saturday the Emperor Joseph and Kaiser William with the foreign representatives will attend a solemn requiem high mass in Hofburg chapel. Later Joseph will return to Ischl, his summer residence.

It is admitted the government is seriously concerned over the disorders which broke out in Bosnia and Herzegovina provinces following the

DR. SMITH'S PORTLAND HOME IS ENTERED AND ROBBED

BURGLAR'S ENTER RESIDENCE AND ESCAPE WITH NUMBER OF ARTICLES.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 30.—Burglars ransacked the residence of Dr. C. J. Smith, democratic nominee for governor, at 544 East Twenty-second street, north, early Saturday evening, making away with a number of articles.

The burglary took place some time between 8 and 10:30 o'clock when Dr. Smith and his family were out of the house. Entrance was gained by breaking a small pane of glass in the kitchen door. The burglars overhauled the house, thoroughly going through drawers and closets. Dr. Smith has been unable as yet to determine just what is missing. City detectives are working on the case, a box of matches being the only apparent clue.

A new creamery will be built at Hood River on the water front.

Dead Fish Flops Over in Basket—a True Fish Story

Comes forth now Judge James W. Maloney with the prize-winning fish story of the season. Or rather, let us say, comes forth James H. Gwinn with the story of the story, for the judge is a modest man and not given to self-exploitation. However, the fact is it second hand does not make it less acceptable to the public though it might discredit it before the Ancient and Hyperbolic Order of Piscatorial Minstrelsy.

It does not concern a fish of prodigious proportions. Stories narrating the adventures of a Sir Isaac with a monster trout that swallowed hook, line and pole and almost got the man are common. They cease to have much merit and can scarcely get a raise from an audience. No, the charm of the judge's yarn lies in its originality. It is the story of a fish that was caught and illustrated the gameness of the trout that lurks in the waters of Waugh creek. If one is to believe this story, and the judge has a reputation for veracity, a fisherman is not sure of his catch on Waugh creek even after he has hooked, landed, cleaned and basketed it. The nine-lived cat, Banquo's ghost and the ambitions of T. Roosevelt have nothing on those redskins when it comes to the "come back" stuff.

The judge told his story to his party in the shade of a mountain tree, told it deliberately, calmly and sincerely. He had preceded the others, Gwinn, C. O. Henry, his own son and young Joe Coleworthy, down the stream and had had rare luck, hooking something like seventy of the finny ones. One, the one in fact, and it was a beauty of some 20 inches or more, the judge held up for the admiration of his hearers. "I caught that old boy two hours ago," he said, "the county juvenile and probate judge. 'He was a demon to land and put up a great fight. Even after I got him out, he nearly flopped back in and he showed such extraordinary vitality that I decided to clean him right there. I removed his internal organs and deposited him in my basket. I wouldn't tell it to the world at large for I haven't any wish to be classed with Baron Munchausen and Dr. Cook, but just as sure as I'm sitting under this tree, when I opened the basket just now, he flopped up and turned clear over. Think of it, out of the water two hours and with all his insides removed and then to flop clear over. We'll be lucky to keep him in the frying pan.'"

Well, the party thought of it and weren't convinced. They ridiculed the story and "kidded" the author, but they did not shake his tale. It was true, he said, for with his own eyes he saw it and they were good eyes that had never deceived him. The judge is a man of sobriety as well as veracity and the sun was not hot enough to produce fermentation of the brain. The party could do nothing but accept it, but before reporting the matter to biologists, Gwinn is consulting a book on hallucinations and illusions for a possible explanation.

DIPLOMATS SMILE WHEN TOLD JOSEPH GRIEVES OVER DEATH

PARIS, June 30.—Diplomats here are smiling grimly at the news of the flood of expressions of sympathy pouring in upon Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, in his supposed grief over Archduke Ferdinand's assassination. The truth is, as pointed out by more than one of them, the emperor disliked his nephew, who disapproved most of his policies and considered it would be a black day for Austria-Hungary when he came to the throne. Again and again when the rumor was circulated the aged ruler was about to abdicate, statesmen familiar with conditions at Vienna, shrugged their shoulders unbelievably, with some such remark as: "Never if he lives to be 100, so long as Francis Ferdinand survives him."

NAVAL BILL IS SIGNED BY WILSON

WASHINGTON, June 30.—President Wilson signed the naval appropriation bill. It provides for three additional dreadnaughts and permits the sale of the warships Mississippi and Idaho to Greece.

T.R. DECLARES HE NEVER FELT BETTER IN HIS LIFE

NEW YORK, June 30.—Col. Roosevelt motored from Oyster Bay and left early today for Pittsburgh. He said he never felt better. He is scheduled to dine with a number of progressive leaders at Pittsburgh this evening and later deliver an address in exposition hall.

LADY CHURCHILL'S SUIT AGAINST SONS ROUSES LONDON

Lady Randolph Churchill.

LONDON, June 30.—Much interest, and curiosity as well, is being shown in the suit of Lady Randolph Churchill against her sons, her purpose being to determine in a court of law her right, under the terms of Lord Randolph Churchill's will, to advance money to others who were later mentioned in the will. When Lord Churchill died he left a will bequeathing the enjoyment of his real and personal property to his widow while she remained unmarried, and latter to his two sons and their children. One of the executors and trustees was Lady Randolph Churchill. The hitch arose as a result of Lady Churchill's marriage to George Cornwallis West, which was later annulled, and she instituted her suit to determine whether the amendment gave her back the right to handle the properties and draw on the resources.

VILLA SAID TO BE IN READINESS TO BREAK ALLEGIANCE

Rebel Leader May Establish New Government in Mexico With General Angeles as Head.

CARRANZISTAS ARE ALARMED

Chief of Constitutional Forces Must Come to Terms, it is reported. If a Break is to be Avoided—Trouble Between Leaders Seems far From Settlement.

EL PASO, June 30.—That Villa will throw off his allegiance to Carranza and establish a Mexican government of his own with General Angeles as provisional president unless Carranza speedily comes to terms with him, is predicted by constitutionalists here and at Juarez. The Carranzistas unquestionably are alarmed.

TORREON, June 30.—There is no longer any question that the break between Carranza and Villa is serious. Villa is known to have telegraphed Carranza that he is tired of the treatment he and his followers are receiving and would do no more fighting until an understanding has been reached. In reply he was notified the Carranzista commission is on the way from Monterey to Torreon for a conference which is expected to be held here or at San Pedro Friday or Saturday. In the meantime Villa's troops are resting here and at Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes. The federals are entrenching at Queretaro.

MRS. REED DENIES INCENDIARY RUMOR

WOMAN TAKES EXCEPTION TO STORIES CIRCULATED REGARDING FIRE.

Denying vehemently and indignantly the truth of the rumors that she set fire to her home Sunday, Mrs. Loe W. Reed is in Pendleton today from her home near Gibbon. She declares—the statement, made by the young man working on the place that he saw her apply the match, to be a base lie, born of malice and it is her purpose, she said, to drive him off the place this evening and horsewhip him all the way to Gibbon.

Mrs. Reed declares she does not know how the fire started but thinks that either the sun beat down upon the house too hot or else some matches strewn about by the little Estes child might have become ignited. She states that several times she had warned the child to leave matches alone. At the time the fire was discovered she says she was in the kitchen with Mrs. Estes getting dinner. The man who says he saw her set the fire, she characterizes as a hanger-on about the place and declares she has been trying to get rid of him for some time. There was not good feeling between them, she says. As for the statement that Mrs. Estes telephoned to Bingham Springs before the fire to the effect that she feared Mrs. Reed would set the house afire, she declares she does not know what Mrs. Estes said but she does know she was trying to get her husband to come home. She denies that Mr. Estes had the place leased, saying she had simply given the family a home there. The property was not insured to half of its value, she says, and declares no one but a crazy person would have thought of burning it.

REVOLT OF HUERTA'S TROOPS SOON IN CAPITAL

Downfall of Dictator is Declared Near by Refugees Arriving From Mexico City.

SOLDIERS ARE DESERTING

Despite Attempts to Keep News of Conditions from the People, Rumors Gain Circulation That Troops Have Refused to Fight Longer—Huerta May Flee City.

VERA CRUZ, June 30.—British subjects are fleeing from Mexico City, the president's downfall and flight followed by anarchy in the capital are predicted by refugees arriving from the interior. From all sides they said reports are reaching Mexico City of desertions by federal soldiers to the constitutional lines. Publication of these stories is forbidden but they are circulated orally and everyone knew the situation is desperate, the refugees state.

According to news reaching the capital it is said the federal defeat at Zacatecas was due to the mutiny of 5000 of the garrison, who refused to face the rebels. One version was that they even turned on and fought their own fellow soldiers.

That the undertaking business is the best barometer of the health of a community and that right now it indicates the merit of the health and sanitation laws and the agitation against disease carriers is the statement made this morning by J. W. Cookerly, prominent Walla Walla undertaker who is spending the day here. Mr. Cookerly two years ago was the president of the National Undertakers' association and is the only western man who has ever been head of the order which combines thousands of undertakers and funeral directors.

"Never have I known the undertaking business to be duller," he said and he didn't speak with the regret that would characterize a merchant in making a similar statement. "There has been a big decrease in the death rate all over the country and I attribute it to the laws which are being placed on the statutes for the promotion of health and sanitation. Good water supplies and the campaign against the fly also help. In my own town we never have a typhoid epidemic any more and but very few deaths from that disease which formerly claimed a big annual toll. One cemetery alone in Walla Walla last year reported 62 less burials than during the preceding year."

As for general business conditions, Mr. Cookerly declared they were much better than a year ago, according to his observations. He knew they were in Walla Walla, he said, and reports from other communities which he had visited indicated that there was a general increase in trade.

MOUNT LASSEN IS ONCE MORE ACTIVE

GREAT CLOUDS OF BLACK SMOKE ROLL OUT, OBSCURING EASTERN HORIZON.

REDDING, Cal., June 30.—After nearly two weeks of inactivity Mount Lassen burst into violent eruption today. Thick black smoke ascended 2000 feet or more, drifting away and obscuring the eastern horizon.

SUFFRAGE RESOLUTIONS ARE PRESENTED WILSON

WOMEN CALL ON PRESIDENT TO DEMAND VOTES—LEADERS CONFIDENT.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The president told 700 suffragettes that he believed women suffrage was a question for the states and not for the federal government to settle.

When the delegation attempted to heckle him he abruptly turned and walked into the east room leaving the women gazing open mouthed in astonishment. Most of the women expected to shake hands with the president but they were not given the opportunity.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—"All done up" in white gowns, shoes, hats and parasols, a "militia of women" marched to the White House to present President Wilson with resolutions demanding votes for women, named at a recent convention of club women in Chicago.

Leaders of the delegation admitted they had picked their time, because tomorrow the rules committee meets and they hoped that body would pass a rule along with the scheduled business of considering the prohibition rule.

HEALTH OFFICERS WILL FIGHT BUBONIC PLAGUE

NEW ORLEANS, June 30.—Health officers announced they are prepared to make a determined war on bubonic rats. They plan to erect a concrete barrier in the infected area and drive rats to this center, trap and poison them. No new cases of the plague are reported today.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Ohio, Mississippi, South Carolina and Missouri health officials wired the health officials here they will take every precaution to prevent a spread of the bubonic plague, now reported threatening New Orleans, in their respective states. Surgeon General Blue planned to start tonight for New Orleans to assume personal charge of the situation.
